The most beautiful pictures that have been shown here for many a day, (and there have been some fine ones,) was exhibited yesterday, both afternoon and evening, at the Tepee, entitled, The Beloved Vagabond. Large crowds witnessed this production, and all pronounced it Great, with a big G. Besides being highly colored, the story the pictures told was true to life, and chief among the lessons they taught was that man easily becomes a victim of environments and that there is such a thing as being able to entirely forget a shattered ideal. The pictures will be shown again tonight.

Sheriff Hedge was called to Cowles Saturday evening to take charge of one, a Mr. Krouch, who is a lad of some twentytwo summers, and who for sometime past has been confined in the hospital at Ingleside. The boy escaped from that institution that same morning and journeyed to Cowles on foot. He was returned to Ingleside by the sheriff on Sunday.

Two of our brother editors, L. O. Matthews of Riverton, and Arthur McArthur of Red Cloud, are giving considerable prominence to the fact that this is leap year. We hope that in this case "advertising pays" for the boys are doubtless lonely without a helpmate. Another editor in this county might also join the list of advertisers, as U. Le Bian of Campbell, is a bachelor. Now girls, if you want your pick of the bunch, get busy at once, for the year will see a majority of these boys join the ranks of the Benedicts. And we assure you that "They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and have the earmarks of excellent husbands.—Karl L. Spence in Franklin County News.
